

A good leader needs to be a hard working person so that he can manage the work given to him.

A good leader should not be selfish, he should help his people who are in need.