

Land grabbing in Africa today has hampered food production in individual families which are victimized. To elucidate what I am meaning, I am going to share with you how my mother failed to cultivate since our land was grabbed.

In 2011 all people from Nakawa and Naguru in Uganda were chased away from their homes including my family.

Since then, we are staying in my uncle's home where there is no land for cultivation.

As a result of the land grab, we now tussle to have what to put in our stomachs.

It is not very bad in our family, but in some families since a good number of people in Nakawa and Naguru were farmers, they nearly have nothing to chew.

This really touches my heart because the victims of land grabs are sleeping hungry because of the so called investors who do not even directly benefit them.

We need to enormously open our eyes as Africans and fight to stop this because even some victims may starve since they only rely on agriculture yet their land is no more.

Secondly, the merciless displacement of people from their land is leading to grave effects.

My fellow Africans and everyone world-wide, I am not telling a story out of a blue but I am speaking out of the tears that came as a result of our land that was grabbed.

What makes me as often to enthusiastically stand against land grabbing is that, the displaced people are not given another place where they can also proceed with life.

As a matter of fact, since 2011 when we were displaced from Nakawa, we still have nowhere to stay. It is just because my good uncle who helped us with a room yet we even have an extended family.

All these things are happening because of land grabbing!
